Canadian Ford Workers Vote To End Strike

LABOR DISPUTES IDLE TOTAL IS CUT TO 436,000

UAW Resumes Discussions
With Ford As Windsor
Workers Plan Return

CAPITAL HEARINGS BEGIN
Fact-Finders Study UAW-GM Dispute; Jeeps To Be Made Again Soon

By United Press
The number of workers idle in labor disputes across the nation
was reduced to 436,000 today as striking CIO workers voted to end
two lengthy work stoppages in the automotive industry.

Meanwhile, leaders of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) resumed discussions with the Ford Motor company on the union's demand for a 30-per-cent blanket wage increase. A company offer of 15 cents an hour was rejected Tuesday.

Striking Ford of Canada workers, away from their jobs for the 100th successive day, last night
approved a dominion-sponsored proposal to end a walkout at the company's Windsor, Ont., plant.
The back-to-work plan, approved
by 72 per cent of the 10,000 Canadian Ford strikers, provides for an immediate resumption of production, followed by negotiations on disrupted issues for 10 days and arbitration after that time.

Workers End Strike
At Muncie, Ind., A second prolonged strike was terminated when 2,000 employees of the Warner Gear company voted to call off a three-month walkout and accept a 15-per-cent wage increase—half their original demand.

As a result of the decision, the Willis-Overland company at Toledo, O., announced it would resume production of civilian jeeps
Jan. 2. The output of jeeps has been halted for 12 weeks because of a lack of transmissions supplied by the Muncie firm.

In Washington, a fact-finding panel began public hearings today
in the UAW-GM wage dispute, involving 175,000 production workers and an additional 31,000 non-striking office employees.

Fear Breakdown
Lloyd K. Garrison, chairman of the panel, expressed some fear either that the striking union or
the company might refuse to continue with the proceedings, depending on the panel's decision on the controversial wage-price issue.

In any case, the committee's decision was expected to be influenced by a White House statement, due tomorrow, on the extent to which government panels should delve into prices and profits in their wage recommendations.

The UAW and the CIO oil workers union have argued that company profits will allow for 30 percent more wages without increasing prices. Industry officials have contended that the relationship of prices and profits should not con-

Nazis Used Poison In Experiment

War Crimes Court Hears
Details Of Shooting
Of 5 Prisoners

NUERNBERG, Dec. 20—Doctors of the S. S., trying to perfect poison bullets for the German army, shot five condemned prisoners with poison missiles and three of them died a violent death, froth-
ing at the mouth, the war crimes
tribunal heard today.

A report by Dr. Krugowsky, chief S. S. hygienist, was introduced showing that he and two other doctors shot the five prisoners through the upper left thigh with 7.65 centimeter bullets
in September, 1944.

The bullets were filled with a chemical called akonitnitrin in crystal form. They passed through the legs of two prisoners without effect.

The other three victims, the report said, suffered a disturbance of the motor nerves after 20 minutes
and a flow of saliva became so strong it would not down it by swallowing.

"The foamy saliva flowed from the mouth, then the sensation of choking and vomiting started," the coldly analytical report said.
"Death occurred 121 to 129 minutes after they were shot."

The evidence of SS atrocities
and weird experiments was presented in support of the prosecu-
tion's charge that every branch of the SS was involved in the Nazi

REDS DISAGREE ON OCCUPATION

Report Says Russian Troops
Will Not Participate In Jap Occupation

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20—The American Broadcasting company
said today that Russian troops will not participate in the occupation
of Japan as a result of a disagreement between General Douglas MacArthur and the Soviets over which of the home islands the Russians would occupy.

Larry Tighe, ABC correspondent, said in a broadcast from Tokyo, the break came after Gen.
MacArthur reportedly told the state department yesterday that if he was not left alone, and if Russia was allowed any further

NO NEW CASES OF DIPHTHERIA FOUND IN CITY

Reports on about 900 throat cultures taken from Circleville
school pupils and teachers this week have revealed no cases of diphtheria and no carriers.

None of the students and teachers from whom cultures were taken at city schools Wednesday have diphtheria and none are carriers of the disease, according to a report received Thursday afternoon from Columbus by Thurman I. Miller,
city safety director.

It was also announced that Mary Stevens, 10, Lovers Lane and Dorothy Peters, South Pickaway street, who had been identified as carriers of the disease last Thursday are not carriers now. Cultures taken from the two girls turned up negative, meaning that they are no longer carriers. There are now no known carriers of the disease in Circleville, Mr. Miller stated.

Through a typographical error
Wednesday's Herald stated that
"some cases had been found". This was entirely wrong. There have been no cases found and no carriers revealed.

Frank Fischer, superintendent
of city schools, said Thursday that several pupils have not reported to have cultures taken. He announced that all who have not been checked may report to the city
cottage, West Franklin street, any time Friday or Saturday morning. He urged all to report so that the checkup can be completed.

FIREMEN ARE SHOWN working amid the ruins of one of the three houses demolished by the illuminating gas explosion that rocked the southwest Philadelphia area. In addition to the three houses razed, the blast damaged 41 other houses and blew out windows and doors in an entire block. Four persons were hospitalized, two of them believed suffering serious injuries. (International Soundphoto)

Drafting of Fathers Halted As New Point Scores Are Announced

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—Demobilization took a welcome pre-Christmas leap today as the Army and Navy cut critical scores to make another 837,000 personnel eligible for discharge within the next two months.

The holiday season also brought good news on the draft front as selective service halted induction of all fathers. The draft now will be limited to single and childless married men aged 18-25, although fathers with fewer than three children will be permitted to volunteer.

Christmas this year will find many an American family united
for the first time since Pearl Harbor. Since V-E day last May, 6-000,000 men and women have been released from service. Discharges are now running around 1,500,000
a month and are being stepped up.
The halt of the father draft was hailed on Capitol Hill. Sen. Chapman Revercomb, R., W. Va., who

FEW AFFECTED

Details of the halting of induction of fathers have not yet been received by the Pickaway county selective service board, but it is believed the new ruling
will make little difference here.
Fathers over 26 have not been drafted for sometime and there are only a few under 26 registered with the board.

had been sponsoring legislation to halt the father draft, termed the action "very gratifying." He said he hoped "the Army will go farther and take care of those fathers
now in the service."

Revercomb obtained the senate's consent yesterday to bring to the floor his bill to discharge all fathers now in service.

The new Army-Navy discharge
quota will be obtained by Army
cuts of three to five points for enlisted men and women and most officers, effective Dec. 31, and by Navy cuts of one to eight points
for all personnel effective on three dates—Jan. 1, Jan. 15 and Feb. 2.

Here are the details of the new
Army and Navy point scores:
Navy:
Vice Adm. Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval personnel, said the point reductions mean that about one-half of the 3,000,000 reservists subject to demobilization will have been returned to civilian life by Feb. 1. The percentage will increase to two-thirds by April 1.

The present score of 38 for most enlisted men will be cut to 36 on Jan. 1, to 35 on Jan. 15 and to 34
on Feb. 2. The score for most male officers, now 44, will be cut by one point in each instance to 41 on Feb. 2.

The score for WAVE personnel
will be reduced from 30 to 29 on Jan. 1 and to 28 on Feb. 2 for officers and from 24 to 23 on Jan.
1 and to 22 on Feb. 2 for enlisted personnel. The score for nurses

PRESIDENT HAS NEW G. I. BILL

Truman Expected To Sign
Soon Law For More
Liberal Loans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—President Truman was expected today
to place his signature promptly
on legislation greatly liberalizing loan and education provisions for veterans under the G. I. bill of rights.

Under the revisions, which got
a final congressional okay yesterday, additional hundreds of thousands of veterans may take advantage of the government's offer of loan guarantees and free education.

Dr. Francis J. Brown of the American Council on Education
predicted that by Fall, colleges
would be swamped with applications of servicemen who could afford to return to school under the higher living allowances.

Besides upping subsistence payments by $15 a month, congress also knocked out a deterring clause
under which benefits accepted un-

RATIONING MAY BE CONTINUED UNTIL JUNE 30

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—Congress has given President Truman authority to continue emergency rationing until June 30.

The senate passed a house-approved bill last yesterday extending his war-time powers for six months. They were scheduled to expire Dec. 31.

A proposal to extend the powers for a full year was beaten, 31
to 30.

Under the bill, Mr. Truman can maintain priorities and allocate commodities. The senate voted to extend the emergency powers only after being told that the government must maintain control over items such as lumber, tin, rubber
and sugar, which are in short supply.

The senate judiciary committee,
in asking that the President's emergency authority be extended
for a full year, predicted that rationing of sugar would be necessary until next Fall. The senate, however, decided to make the President appeal to congress again
for any specific emergency powers he may feel he needs after June 30.

Under the war powers act, the government at one time had 3-967 restrictive orders in effect.
This has been cut to 220, and representatives of the office of re-conversion promised congress that these would be reduced as rapidly as possible. They agreed that industry committees would be consulted before any new restrictions
are begun.

STUDENTS KEPT FROM CLASSES BY HEAVY SNOW

Two Schools Closed When Buses Are Unable To Deliver Pupils

ROAD CREWS KEPT BUSY

At Least 67 Persons Known
Dead As Result Of Winter
Weather Over Nation

For the first time this winter,
two county schools were forced to close because of impassable roads
Thursday morning. School buses were unable to reach Williamsport and Atlanta schools because of deep snow drifts which had blocked the roads.

Atlanta school will remain closed until January 2, but Williamsport school will attempt to reopen Friday morning if roads can be cleared of drifts by that time.
Closing of Atlanta school, leaves
only six county schools of 18,
scheduled to have classes Friday,
the last day of school before the Christmas holidays. Other schools are closed because of the flu epidemic.

Circleville and the county were buried under more than six inches of snow Thursday after 12 inches fell after 7 a. m. Wednesday, according to Weather Observer Roy Hawkes. Prospects for a White
Christmas are exceedingly bright.
Snow up to a depth of nine inches
was reported in some sections of the county.

County Engineer Henry T. Mc-
Crady announced that all county

NINE NAMED TO UNO ASSEMBLY

Mrs. Roosevelt Is One Of Delegates To United Nations Meeting

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—Nine prominent Americans including a president's widow, a steel magnate - diplomat and a wealthy chicken raiser today awaited senate approval to speak for the United States in the United Nations organization.

They will serve as delegates and alternates to the first session of the United Nations assembly opening Jan. 10 in London.

In addition one of them, former secretary of state Edward R. Stetinius, Jr., will be the U. S. delegate on the powerful United Nations council when that body is eventually called together.

President Truman sent the nine nominations to the senate yesterday. In doing so, he emphasized the assembly's role as a sounding board for free, publicized world
opinion by naming outstanding
public figures including representatives of both major political parties.

Besides Stettinius, one - time
board chairman of the U. S. Steel Corp., they included Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late president; Sens. Tom Connally, D., Tex., and Arthur H. Vandenberg,
R., Mich., of the senate foreign relations committee; Reps. Sol
Bloom, D., N. Y., and Charles Egan,
R., N. J., of the house foreign affairs committee; John Foster
Dulles, lawyer and Republican party foreign policy adviser;
Frank C. Walker, former postmaster general; and John G. Townsend, wealthy Republican politician
and chicken farmer.

Mr. Truman revealed that he had asked Secretary of State
James F. Byrnes, now in Moscow, to attend "a portion of the first part" of the session as senior U. S.
delegate. He referred to provisions that either the President or secretary of state may represent the U. S. It was understood the President had no intention of attending UNO sessions.

Byrnes will head the five-man
U. S. delegation in the assembly at its opening. Stettinius, who will

Chinese Report Says Russia
Demanding Joint Control
Of Manchurian Plants

PEIPING, Dec. 20—Soviet-Chinese negotiations over Manchuria
have met a setback in Russian demands for joint control of Manchurian heavy industries, a Chinese newspaper report claimed today. Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek's son is trying to patch up
the difficulties.

Quarters close to the central government said they understood the reported Russian demand was the reason for frequent flights by Chiang Ching Kuo between Changchun, the Manchurian capital, and his father Chiang Kai-Shek's headquarters.

The Catholic Chinese language
newspaper "Socialist Welfare Daily," reporting the Russian claim, said "the Manchurian problem again has entered a critical phase."

Chiang Ching Kuo, whose title
is diplomatic commissioner for Manchuria, has gone to Nanking
to see his father. Chiang Kai-Shek is expected to meet Gen. of Army
George C. Marshall there.

(Marshall arrived in Shanghai today.)

Before he left Peiping for Nanking, Chiang Kai-Shek was reported pleased with the trend of the Changchun talks, which then were said to be progressing favorably.
Whatever the reason for the delay, circles close to the generalissimo said that Chinese nationalist troops still have not entered Mukden, nor have they made airborne landings in Changchun, as anticipated. Ground forces were said to be on the outskirts of Mukden,
while the airborne troops are supposed to land in Changchun and Mukden "in a week or two."

While here the generalissimo
studied the problem of evacuating Japanese troops and civilians from north China in event American ships are unavailable later. Chinese circles hope to get all Japanese troops out in two months.

There still are 4,000,000 Japanese in China, Formosa, northern Indo-China and Manchuria. Over 1,000,000 of them are in China between the great wall and Canton.

HINTS ON HOW TO KEEP WARM ARE SUGGESTED

NEW YORK, Dec. 20—Having trouble keeping warm?

Less Mattes, head of the Insele-
bic foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to the American home, suggests that you:

(1) Turn on your electric fan
and face it toward the radiator to keep warm air circulating.

(2) Put a large bulb in your reading lamps instead of two small ones.

(3) Keep all windows closed except for an airing of the house at noon. Enough fresh air gets in through cracks.

(4) Put old newspapers or blankets under rugs.

(5) Install a light piece of ply-board behind the radiator, and

(6) Keep the door closed while bidding guests goodbye. Tell them goodbye inside, Mattes said.

ADMIRAL TURNER BACK ON STAND BEFORE PROBERS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—Adm.
Richmond Kelly Turner, 1941 chief of the navy war plans division,
was called back today to testify
before the congressional Pearl Harbor committee. Chief Counsel
William D. Mitchell resumed questioning.

He first wanted to know what Turner's responsibilities were in regard to war warnings sent Navy commanders in late 1941.

BIG THREE TALKS COMPLICATED BY NEW DEMANDS

Four Soviet Papers Give Prominence To Demand
For Black Sea Area

BYRNES, BEVIN SILENT

Soviets Want 5,500 Square
Mile Coastal Belt
Including Port

MOSCOW, Dec. 20—The problem of Turkey was injected into the forefront of big three deliberations today when the Soviet official press prominently published a demand that turkey turn over to Russia a strategic 5,500-square mile Black Sea coastal belt adjacent to the Soviet oil port of Ba-tumi.

The Soviet demand included the important Turkish port of Trabzon
and a slice of coast about 110
miles long and roughly 50 miles deep extending south from the Russo-Turkish frontier on the Black sea.

Simultaneous publication of the demand in all four of Moscow's major newspapers left no doubt that it had Soviet official blessing.

It was submitted as Generalissimo Stalin, deeply tanned and in excellent health, took a personal hand in the deliberations of the big three foreign ministers.

The Black sea belt lies just north of the Turkish provinces of Kars and Erzurum. The Soviet press has for some months been giving prominence to demands by Armenian nationalists that these two Turkish provinces be incorporated into Soviet Armenia.

Today's demand for the coastal belt was the first mention of the area by Russia.

There was no comment on the new Soviet territorial demand from Secretary of State James F.
Byrnes or Foreign Secretary
Ernest Bevin. However, the text of the Soviet proposal as published in the Moscow press was quickly translated and placed before them for their study.

The demand was presented on behalf of the Soviet republic of Georgia, Stalin's birthplace. It was in the form of a detailed four-column letter, written by two Georgian historians, S. Dzahana-shia and N. Bersenshivili.

The letter was originally published by the Tiflis newspaper, Communist, and it called for the return to Georgia of all territory
ceded to Turkey in 1921.

The Black sea area along with the provinces of Kars and Erzurum were relinquished by Russia after they had been occupied for several months by Turkish troops.

The coastal area has a population of about 100,000 centering
around the provincial market town of Artvin. Other towns in the area of the Soviet demand include Ardagan, Oltu, Tortum, Ispir, Bayburt, Gumushane and Giesun.

The whole area together with Kars and Erzurum form a belt roughly 100 miles deep along the Caucasian frontier of Russia connecting with Iranian Azerbaijan
where a semi-autonomous government has been established.

Soviet relations with Turkey
have been cool for some time. Russia recently made formal representations to Turkey over anti-Russian demonstrations which occurred in Istanbul.

The Soviet has made no secret
of its eagerness to obtain revision
of the Montreux convention governing passage through the Dardanelles.

(Russia has demanded free passage through the Dardanelles and elimination of the Montreux provisions barring the straits to belli-

STUDENTS KEPT FROM CLASSES BY HEAVY SNOW

Two Schools Closed When Buses Are Unable To Deliver Pupils

(Continued from Page One) roads have been cleared by snowplows and scrapers and that the county engineering department is working on a 24-hour basis trying to keep up with continuing snow falls. Chinders and calcium chloride have been sprinkled on the roads at strategic spots.

The roads are still hazardous, Mr. McCrady said, and there is danger that winds will cause deep drifts that will block the roads. Such drifts have already been reported in various parts of the county, forcing two schools to close Thursday. All highways are open, but traveling is still unsafe, he said.

The State Highway Department reported that drifting was very bad on route 56 east of Circleville and on route 104 and that plows were being kept busy keeping the roads open. All state roads in the county are open but slippery in spots where the snow has been packed down on the road.

Many cars with smooth tires found the going rough on downtown streets. Skidding, twisting, and sliding from side to side, round and round was the usual procedure at intersections and in driving from parking places.

Scores of eastern communities were snowbound today as winter gripped most of the nation. At least 67 persons were known dead.

Suffering threatened to become acute as the eastern seaboard fought a swirling blizzard with worn-out snow plows and undermanned crews.

The northeast quarter of the nation was blanketed in snow from the Atlantic coast to the wheat fields of Kansas and from the Canadian border as far south as Virginia. Thermometers clung near zero in the Midwest.

At least two men in the New York city area dropped dead as they struggled through the knee deep snow. The snow there was expected to end before noon after falling steadily for more than 24 hours.

Fresh snow fell wiped out efforts to dig out the Buffalo, N. Y., railroad yards where a shipping bottleneck threatened to stop shipments of fuel and food to populous coastal areas. A state of emergency had been declared in Buffalo, and an embargo placed on all incoming rail shipments.

Planes were grounded in most areas south of Chicago. Trains were running late. Roads were clogged as far south as the Carolinas. Long distance telephone calls from New York to Florida and Oregon were delayed as much as two to four hours by the storm.

The storms delayed troops arrivals on both coasts. Ships were halted outside San Francisco harbor because of the jam of troops waiting for rail transportation tied up east of the Rocky Mountains. Transports were unable to enter New York harbor because of the blinding blizzard.

The weatherman forecast gradually moderating temperatures and less snow during the day, but warned that no real relief could be expected until after the weekend.

BIG PLANES TO BRING PACIFIC VETS TO HOMES

DAYTON, O., Dec. 20—Two C-97 planes took off here today on the first of two round trips to bring stranded veterans of the Pacific war, now on the west coast, to their homes by Christmas. The planes are the transport models of the famed B-29 bombers.

Ohio's Gov. Frank J. Lausche recently telegraphed Secretary of War Robert Patterson asking that action be taken to insure that Ohio men of the 37th infantry (Buckeye) division now on the West Coast arrive home for Christmas.

The governor's telegram followed receipt of a wire from the coast signed by "Ohio men" which pointed out that Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler and his staff had been transported home in an air force plane although other 37th men had been waiting for transportation for as much as five days.

The first flight was bound for Seattle, Wash., to bring home 200 men and the second trip will be made to San Francisco to return men of the 37th division.

The aircraft will fly non-stop on each trip, the first scheduled to end here tomorrow afternoon. The flight to San Francisco will start Saturday afternoon and the planes will return late Sunday or early Monday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—The Navy court which found Capt. Charles B. McVay III guilty of negligence in the loss of the cruiser Indianapolis today sends its records and recommended sentence to the Navy department for review.

Other point changes: Male doctors—cut from 53 to 51 on Jan. 1 and to 50 on Feb. 2.

Mailmen—an eight-point cut from 44 to 36 male personnel and a three-point cut from 29 to 26 for female personnel on Feb. 2 with no reduction before that time.

Punch operators and shore patrol specialists, physical therapy personnel, hospital corpsmen and other specialists will become eligible for discharge under the point system for the first time on Jan. 1. Their scores were set at 23 to 44 points with reductions of from one to three points on Feb. 2.

Here are the changes in the Army's discharge procedure:

Point scores—reduced from 53 to 50 for enlisted men and from 73 to 70 for male officers other than those in the medical corps. A five-point cut to 65 for dental and veterinary corps officers and for all medical corps officers except specialists. The WAC score remains unchanged at 32 for enlisted personnel and 37 for officers.

Length of service—Reduced from 48 to 42 months for enlisted men and from 51 to 45 months for male officers not in medical departments. WACS were included for the first time with enlisted personnel discharged after 30 months and officers after 39.

Discharge age—Reduced by three years to 45 for all medical and dental corps officers except plastic surgeons.

This was the last day of hearings in 1945. Today's adjournment marked the beginning of a holiday recess, with the trial to be resumed early in January.

"Over a long period of time MacArthur and the Russians have been dickering over the problem of the Russian occupation of Japan," Tighe said.

"First the Russians wanted to bring an army over here. MacArthur flatly said 'no'. He would permit them to bring only one division."

"Finally the Russians agreed, but insisted that they be allowed to occupy Hokkaido, the northernmost of the main Japanese islands."

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Simkins left Thursday for Florida where they will spend the winter months. They will be at home at 1242 South Greenway Drive, Coral Gables, Florida.

The lawmakers also removed a major source of complaint to loan provisions. They deleted the word "normal" from the requirement that property sought to be of "reasonable normal value." And they raised the maximum guarantees on real estate from $2,000 to $4,000.

At the same time, in answer to charges that inflation now makes loans impractical, the period in which guarantees can be made was extended from the present two years to 10 years after the war.

The lawmakers also removed a changes yesterday after a house-senate conference committee patched up a five-week quarrel over proposals to loosen veterans administration control over loans.

As finally written, the bill lets borrower and lender make their own agreement, with government guarantee being almost automatic.

In a move closely tied to the broad extension of loan guarantees, the veterans administration has already prepared a simplified, single form to be used by loan applicants.

BITTER FIGHT ON MERGER SEEN

(Continued from Page One) ments that Navy officials had advanced against a merger, Chairman Carl Vinson, D. Ga., of the house naval affairs committee said it would "sink the navy" and added:

"It is a frightening manifestation of military power politics and we would view with suspicion and dismay if it were introduced in any of our sister democracies."

Vinson objected strongly to abolishing two separate military departments and placing all land, sea and air forces under a single secretary of national defense. This, he said, would "concentrate the greatest military power in the world today in the hands of one man—a man not responsible to the electorate or congress."

He charged it would amount to a military dictatorship and declared it would never be supported by the American people.

'SHORAN' HELPED U. S. PLANES HIT BOMB TARGETS

WRIGHT FIELD, O., Dec. 20—A radar navigational device enabled American planes to strike pin point targets through clouds and overcast during the last six months of the war in Europe, the Air Technical Service Command revealed today.

Known as "Shoran"—short range air navigation system—the device proved nearly as accurate against invisible bridges, ammunition and supply dumps in the European and Mediterranean theatres as did the famed Norden bomb-sight in clear weather.

It was termed the "perfect system" by Air Force pilots, and on several occasions scored hits on key targets where visual bombing attacks had failed.

During the first month of operations in Italy, Shoran was responsible for destruction of six bridges in eight attacks. One of these was said to be the Canale D'Onzono railway viaduct on the Piedicelle Line in northern Italy, which had been left unscathed by six visual bombing raids.

Shoran requires accurate maps, ground stations set up within 250 miles of the target, and accurate mathematics for successful operation.

Asks End of Bus Strike
Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach has asked union and company representatives to end a walkout of striking Greyhound bus employees in 18 northern states and submit their dispute to a similar five-man panel.

The Greyhound strike began seven weeks ago after the company rejected wage demands of the Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees (AFL).

In other labor developments, Pacific Coast steamfitters threatened strike action in support of higher wages, and a New York supreme court judge ruled that hospital employees do not have the right to strike.

New York Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora made the ruling yesterday. Pecora granted a permanent injunction against work stoppages at New York city hospital because of the "compelling necessity for service without interruption."

Mr. Huffman is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Florence Wolford, Mrs. Helen Valentine, Mrs. Hazel Stein, Mrs. Gertrude Pettit and Mrs. Mary Mancini, all of Circleville; three brothers, Charles, of Wichita, Kans., Harry, of Conway, and Alva, of Columbus; two sisters, Mrs. May Callahan, of Lancaster, and Adella J. Huffman, of Circleville; twenty-two grandchildren and one great grandchild.

(Continued from Page One) he one of the five, will step into the role of chief delegate when Byrnes leaves. Connally, Vandenberg and Mrs. Roosevelt will make up the remainder of the initial delegation.

Bloom, chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, will probably become the fifth full delegate after Byrnes departs. The remaining alternates will go to London to be available at any time.

Stettinius will be paid only for the council job — $20,000 a year. Other assembly delegates, except for Byrnes and congressmen who will serve without pay, will get $12,000 annually.

One of the first jobs for the initial UNO assembly meeting is to select the American city that will serve as UNO's permanent headquarters.

Most of the American delegation hopes to sail Dec. 30 on the Queen Elizabeth. Stettinius, still recuperating from a recent illness, probably will go by plane later.

U. S. COMPLETES TWO LOAN PACTS WITH BELGIUM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—The United States and Belgium today signed two loan agreements providing Belgium $100,000,000 in credits.

The agreements were arranged by the export-import bank. One provides for a $55,000,000 line of credit to finance purchase of goods which had been arranged for under lend-lease prior to V-J day. The second, for $45,000,000, permits Belgium to buy American agricultural and manufactured products.

The $55,000,000 credit will be available to Belgium until June 30, 1946. Repayment is provided for in 60 semi-annual installments beginning July 1, 1946, at 2 1/2 percent interest yearly.

Under the $45,000,000 credit, Belgium may make purchases here until June 30, 1948. Advances under the credit will be made against 2 1/2 percent Belgian notes maturing March 31, 1951. At that time Belgium may tender new notes in exchange.

LIMIT ON UNO MEETINGS ASKED BY RUSSIANS

LONDON, Dec. 20—Russia asked the United Nations today to avoid calling international conferences unless the big five and a big majority of the other countries agree in advance.

Andre A. Gromyko, the Soviet delegate, cited specifically the international civil aviation conference in Chicago from which Russia stayed away—a conference at which Switzerland and Spain, not members of the United Nations, were represented.

By inference Gromyko referred to a recent educational and cultural conference in London at which Russia was not represented, and the Quebec food and agricultural organization meeting from which the Soviets withdrew their representatives at the last moment.

The pace of big three deliberations appeared to be speeding up with Stalin's direct participation. Harriman, who probably has seen Stalin more often during the past five years than any other diplomat, called on him last night with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. The American diplomats talked with Stalin for 90 minutes.

Harriman said the Soviet premier "looks very well—better than when I saw him last October. He has a fine tan and looks well rested."

This categorical statement killed rumors circulating for several weeks that Stalin was ill, even some in foreign countries that he had died.

MRS. MANSFELDT SAID GUILTY OF MAN SLAUGHTER

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20—Mrs. Annie Irene Mansfeldt late last night was found guilty of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a nurse she believed had stolen her doctor-husband's love. Today, haggard and thin, she waited in her cell for a sanity trial.

A jury of six men and six women returned the verdict after deliberating five hours and 13 minutes, climaxing a 17-day court drama.

The verdict carries a one to 10-year sentence. The 46-year-old socialite mother of three children was charged with the first degree jealousy murder on Oct. 4 of Mrs. Vada Martin, 32, wife of Warrant Officer Wilbur Martin.

A few hours after Mrs. Mansfeldt walked into central emergency to announce, "there's a woman dying in my car," her husband, Dr. John H. Mansfeldt, prominent society physician, committed suicide by swallowing poison.

HELEN CRYDER, LT. C. F. JOSEPH ARE MARRIED

HALLSVILLE — The Hallsville United Brethren church was lighted by the soft glow of cathedral candles for the wedding of Miss Helen Louise Cryder to Lt. C. F. Joseph, U. S. N. R., at 7:30 p. m., Saturday, December 1, Urns of gladioli, bronze and white chrysanthemums, and seven-branch candelabra accented by the palms and ferns which banked the altar, formed the background for the double ring ceremony. The Rev. H. C. Elliott, of Beaver, former pastor of this church, officiated.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cryder, Rt. 2, Kingston. Lt. Joseph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Joseph, of Luckey (near Toledo).

As the guests assembled, a program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Dana Mary Poling, of Lancaster, soloist, and Miss Audrey Hartman, South Salem, pianist. Miss Poling sang "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Traditional white satin fashioned the bride's gown which was trimmed with tiny self-covered buttons down the fitted bodice, while similar buttons trimmed the long sleeves, ending in points over the hands. The full skirt ended in a long train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a tiara of orange blossoms, while her bouquet was fashioned of white chrysanthemums. She was given in marriage by her father.

Her only attendant, Miss Beatrice Cleveland, was attired in a gown of green taffeta, similarly made. Her bouquet was of rose chrysanthemums.

Carolyn Sue Cryder, three-year-old niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a long, full skirted frock of yellow taffeta, and carried a small white basket of yellow and white chrysanthemums with ribbon streamers.

At the conclusion of his 30-day leave, he will report to his base at Chicago.

Guests from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walling and son, Dudley, Mr. and Mrs. Harn Fahle, Mrs. C. B. Loomis, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Miller, of Luckey, Lt. and Mrs. L. E. Cryder and daughter, Carolyn, Camp Hood, Texas, Paul Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Karshner, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin X. PERMISSION TO SUE BANK GIVEN LIVESTOCK FIRM

Permission to sue the First National Bank of Kingston for $27,017.50 has been granted to the Springfield Livestock Sales company and the Chillicothe Clearing agency by the Clark county common pleas court.

The court was told by George C. Collins, attorney for the two companies, that the $27,017.50 was fraudulently paid from the checking accounts of partnership assets in the Kingston bank under the name of Hocking Valley Livestock Sales Co.

The money was paid, Collins said, in discharge of four promisory notes which he claimed were the individual obligation of James P. Mattinson, Lewis J. Holderman and James M. Caldwell, three of the partners of the Chillicothe Clearing Agency.

Collins also asserted that prior to the time of the transfer of the cash, the payment of all claims against the accounts had been ordered stopped by the partnership.

MANY PARTIES PLANNED FOR CITY'S WORKERS

Industrial Plants, Stores
Hold Special Events;
To Mark Christmas

Christmas parties given by industrial concerns, church activities and dances are scheduled in Cincinnati to add to the spirit of the holiday season.

Christmas parties for employees will be given by the Ralston-Purina company, the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company, the Ohio Consolidated Telephone company and the Silco company. The Container Corporation's party for employees was held Wednesday night.

Parties for the electric company employees will be held Thursday at 6 p. m. in the basement of the power company building. Party for the telephone workers will be held Friday at 7 p. m. in Hanley's and for the Ralston-Purina workers at 6:30 p. m. Friday in St. Philip's Episcopal church parish house.

All outside and inside workers for the telephone company in the county and their immediate families are invited to attend the telephone company party.

The Silco Company will have its party for employees Saturday noon at the plant. Container Corporation employees enjoyed a Christmas party in Memorial Hall Wednesday night. They were entertained by a floor show and danced to the music of Ned Mape's 9-piece orchestra from Columbus. A buffet supper was served at Hanley's and prizes were awarded.

At the Ralston-Purina party, service and safety awards will be made and a short program will be held. Following the program, a dance will be held in Memorial hall. The plant will be closed Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

Most of the plants and many of Cincinnati's business enterprises are paying special Christmas bonuses, usually based on length of service, to employees. Some pay the bonuses in terms of a wage for a certain period of time.

All churches in Cincinnati and Pickaway county are planning special activities and programs commemorating the Christmas season.

Two public dances are planned during the season—the Mistletoe Dance, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, to be held December 27, and the New Year's Eve dance to be held under the auspices of the American Legion.

U. S. MOTORISTS TO HAVE PHONES IN AUTOS SOON

Bell System To Make Tests
Of Radio-Telephone
Service On Roads

NEW YORK—American motorists may soon be able to telephone from an automobile to any number in the nationwide Bell system. The American Telephone and Telegraph company announced that extensive trials of mobile radiotelephone service were being planned for three highway routes. Urban auto-telephone service will begin within a few months in some cities, the company said.

The highway trials will be made on routes totalling nearly 1,000 miles between Chicago and St. Louis (via Ottawa, Peoria and Springfield, Ill.); New York, Albany and Buffalo and New York and Boston.

Application for stations on the Illinois route has already been made to the federal communications commission by the Illinois Bell Telephone company. Applications for other routes will be made shortly, with service in each case beginning several months after authorization is granted.

Here's how it will work: A person calling an automobile first gets long distance, then asks for the "mobile service operator" and gives her the auto's call number. That operator routes the call over telephone wires to a transmitting-receiving station near the highway. From there it is relayed by radio to the traveling automobile.

The driver both hears and sees his phone ring, picks the receiver from the dashboard and says "hello." A handy button switches him from listening to talking at will.

The motorist who wants to make a call just picks up his telephone and pushes the talk button. That signals the operator, who reverses the above procedure to reach his number.

The company said it planned to make trials under actual operating conditions with the cooperation of truck, bus and moving van companies which have indicated interest in the plans.

FCC approval has been granted for experimental installations in urban areas of Boston, Baltimore, Washington, New York, Newark, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Atlanta, New Orleans, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Miami, Memphis, Chicago, Milwaukee, Green Bay, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Houston, the company said. Service with equipment now being manufactured will start at some of those cities in a few months. Applications are on file or in preparation for similar service in 32 other cities.

ROYALTY DANCES WITH 'HELP' AT ANNUAL PARTY

LONDON, Dec. 20 — King George VI waltzed with his butler's wife last night, and Queen Elizabeth did a turn with her footman.

Princess Elizabeth, in a long white evening gown with spangled skirt, danced with a chef from the palace kitchen.

It was the annual "below stairs" Christmas party at Buckingham palace. The royal family spent an hour with the household staff doing gay dances. The king, in dinner jacket, requested a Scottish eightsome reel played by two khaki-clad pipers or the scots guards.

The queen wore a black evening gown with high epaulettes shoulders. She sat out one of the most boisterous numbers known as the "palais glide." One of Princess Elizabeth's partners was Cecil Woods, a junior palace clerk, who played the part of the chief comic opposite the princess in wartime Christmas pantomimes at Windsor castle.

KEEP PEACE OR PERISH

FROM some points of view, the most important news of recent months is the series of articles released by a committee of scientists from Oak Ridge, Tenn., urging the world to wake up to the perils and potentialities of the atomic age. The carefully prepared articles emphasize the impossibility of the United States keeping the atomic secrets to herself. The biggest secret is out now—it was let out when the bomb was dropped in Japan and proof of its workability demonstrated.

The second part of the secret seems not much of a secret, either. The scientists say it is a "straightforward proposition" of bringing together enough plutonium to cause the atomic explosion and then to control that explosion until the desired moment. The Oak Ridge men say details of these processes, machinery and the like can be learned by any nation in from three to five years. They maintain, as has been said again and again, that there is no defense against the bombs. Enemy agents could secrete bomb parts in their suit cases, enter the country and, along with atomic rockets, at a prearranged time, lay waste all cities of 100,000 or more, killing or maiming at least a fourth of the population. There would be no strength or resources with which to fight back—it would be too late to try.

The other side of the atomic coin is a picture of superlative good to mankind from harnessing atomic energy. Atomic power plants can be a reality within a very few years. Cities can be air conditioned, freed from smoke and dirt. Atomic-driven ocean liners can operate for a lifetime with but one fueling.

The menace or the good is worldwide. So must the control be. The Oak Ridge men say the control must have teeth in it. They ought to know.

A SCIENTIFIC SANTA

IT seems even Santa Claus is now trained in public relations. The Volunteers of America, started in 1896 by Gen. Ballington Booth and carried on by his widow Maud since his death five years ago, have just completed a course in training its street-corner Santa technique. The Santas who are to solicit for Christmas dinners for the needy have been given a long list of do's and don'ts, calculated to entice the maximum flow of coins from passers-by into their chimney-shaped collection boxes. Even Santa can't escape the scientific age.

The University of Chicago freshmen get a break. Traditionally they have been made to wear green caps to indicate their freshman status to all comers. Now green is a war-time casualty, and they can no longer be distinguished from their older brethren. It is possible, however, that freshmen will look green anyway.

WASHINGTON—Should Maud Byrnes have gone to Moscow with her husband, the secretary of state, when that heavily burdened gentleman traveled to the conference of foreign ministers? Should Hazel Vandenberg accompany her husband, foremost Republican senator, Arthur Vandenberg, when that active gentleman travels to London to the meeting of the U. N. O.?

The answer to both questions is emphatically "Yes." All smart men take their wives to important conferences, especially if the wives are clever and charming. Because they want to share the exciting experiences with the Little Women? Yes, again. But principally because a clever, loyal wife is the best insurance any man, particularly a public official, can have in a situation in which it is important that he minds his wife and saves his health.

(There are no quotation marks about my preceding sentences. I should have placed them there. For I spoke the opinions of several knowing public citizens.)

Mrs. Byrnes was seriously considering going to Moscow. Her hesitation was not because she feared the hardships of the long trip but because there was so little time in which to take the shots all travelers to foreign countries are required to take as precautions against disease.

Mrs. Byrnes is gracious and intelligent. She would represent American women most effectively in Russia.

And Mrs. Vandenberg would happily advertise the good qualities of American women in Britain. It won't be cozy in either London or Moscow this Christmas season. But, heavens, you do not find

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—Does Russia want war? I am confident she does not. The inner portent of events clearly says she wanted to conquer Europe and Asia for Communism, or her current arbitrary socialist equivalent. We can only judge by what she has said and done, plus her apparent self interest.

She has pursued the policy of taking as much as she can get without stepping over the line into overt belligerency. She has used her troops in the Baltic and Balkans, revolution in Iran, treaties in China and diplomacy in Japan, Italy, France and our occupation areas. Her purpose does not vary; her tactics are adjusted to locale.

I do not for one moment believe any Russian official considers capitalistic democracy superior to arbitrary socialism. I think they expect the world to come to dictatorial Socialism.

But they also see democratic capitalism is having its troubles. Britain is bent upon a labor party Socialism under modified capitalism and a parliament—for the next step at least, (Churchill claims they will have to make it dictatorial eventually in order to make it work.)

We have a debt around 300 billion dollars, a drag which capitalism has never tried to carry before, and we have a confused people. The Russians may well figure they can wait as far as we are concerned while picking up power in Europe and Asia.

Our foreign policy has hewed to one line. We have defended our hopes for post-war through United Nations organization and its modified Atlantic Charter background; and we have resisted encroachments upon this hope by Russia or Britain. We have tried appeasement, waiting, money, gifts and pressure with limited, if not discouraging results. Peace has not been fulfilled.

We have not tried isolation or war, and will not voluntarily. Russian diplomacy is not likely to force us into either eventually, for plain reasons, namely these:

In the final depth of our own ideology, we represent in this world a basic God-fearing principle. In us, it manifests itself generally as a belief in Christian social faith.

But the Confucionists and the Mohammedans are also God-fearing. They have leaned sharply toward our political policy in the post-war events. In the matter of Communism, or Russianism, they are naturally our diplomatic allies.

Marx fundamentally and rightly realized the state-ideal could not be erected among the God-fearing. Russia uses the Orthodox church politically, alternately as a football and foreign prestige-builder (Balkans), but basic arbitrary Socialism holds for the long run with Marx.

There are said to be 220,000,000 Mohammedans in this world; 338,000,000 Roman Catholics; 135,000,000 Protestants and 15,000,000 Jews, (with majorities naturally antagonistic to state dominated religions.)

Certainly a great many people like our world influence more than any other, and appreciate that upon our leadership rests the world hope of all the God-fearing.

We can hardly return to isolationism, if we wished. We have assumed a world responsibility, and the pressure of it will be upon us.

Our desire for peace based on freedom

Pain in Back—A Symptom Of a Variety of Disorders

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
PAIN is always a warning signal. Too often it is ignored. Pain in the back indicates that something is wrong, but it is not always an easy job to find where the trouble lies.

The pain may be due to conditions affecting the various structures in the back, such as the muscles, nerves and the bones of the spine, but it also may be produced by trouble in other parts of the body such as in the stomach, bowel, gallbladder, or in the kidneys.

How Pain Started
According to Doctor W. Richard Hochwalt, of Ohio, and his co-workers, the first thing which must be done is to determine just how the pain started; for example, whether it came on gradually or whether it followed some injury. Then the location and the type of pain must be discovered, that is, whether it is in the lower, middle or upper part of the back, whether the pain passes from the back into the legs, whether the pain is continuous or made worse by coughing or sneezing.

Pain in the back which occurs in the morning just after a person arises may be due to inflammation of the connecting tissues in the back, to muscular inflammation or to mild prolonged inflammation of the joints in the spine.

Often, the backache occurs in the afternoon and improves with rest. This type of backache may be due to poor posture, to the type of work the person is doing, or to defects in the spine.

Pain in the back which occurs at night may be due to a tumor of the spinal cord or to some trouble with the discs of cartilage which act as cushions between the bones of the spine. Severe arthritis may also cause this type of pain.

Pain in the back which is continuous and never seems to let up may be produced by tumors and severe infections of the spine such as tuberculosis.

Once the type of pain has been determined, a careful examination must be carried out. Of course, X-ray examination is often helpful when the trouble is due to some disturbance of the spine. Persons with backache must realize the difficulty of finding the cause and should cooperate with the physician in every way possible while the study is being carried out.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. B.:—Does a discharge necessarily mean a tumor of the womb?

Answer:—A tumor of the womb is probably one of the least common causes for a discharge. There are many other possible causes such as infections of various types. A careful study by a physician would be advisable to determine the cause of the condition so that proper treatment may be carried out.

For Thursday, December 20
ACCORDING to the astral indications, there may be but slight inclination to attend to anything of a serious or commonplace nature, since the spirit of hospitality, conviviality, romance and unusual adventure lure to paths of pleasure and indulgence. This may lead to a regrettable crisis since the health as well as pocketbook are under adverse astral conditions. Prudence, duty, proper sense of proportion should regulate the prevailing holiday spirit.

THE BIRTHDAY MURDER

LANGE LEWIS

COPYRIGHT, 1945, BY THE ROBERT MERRILL COMPANY, DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE

SYNOPSIS

Victoria Jason, 34 and a successful author, found a greater contentment in her recent marriage to kindly Albert Hime, director of Class B films in Hollywood, than she had ever known with her husband, Sam Harris, whom she had divorced ten years before. Even in such trivial matters as Thursday, the maid's day off, Albert yielded to her preference, and endured the heated over casserole which Hazel always prepared for Thursday's dinner before she left. Victoria's best-seller, "Ina Hart"—the story of a murderer—was about to go into production. Albert had recommended Maria Hastings, an attractive ingenue, for the lead, but Victoria bluntly tells her she is too inexperienced. Shortly after Maria left, Victoria's friend, Bernice Saxe, arrived with a serious marital problem. Walter, her husband, had discovered a letter from Stan, with whom she is in love, and threatens to divorce her. She is infuriated when Victoria advises her to give Stan up, but before departing, agrees to follow her advice. Victoria, busy preparing dinner for herself and Albert, makes a mental note to scold Hazel when she finds the supply of coffee on hand will make but three cups. Her third visitor was Sam Harris, whom she had not seen since their divorce, and the sight of him standing in her doorway brought back a flood of bitter memories.

CHAPTER EIGHT

AND NOW Sam was standing before her. On his head was an overseas cap with the two silver bars of a captain. He had grown a mustache, a heavy, dark, aggressively masculine one. His opaque brown eyes showed no emotion. He smiled, and she saw at once that his left upper incisor was a peg tooth, and then wondered how she had noted such a minute change. His face was fuller but still retained the hungry look which had always characterized it. She realized now that it came from the shape of his cheekbones, which were prominent and had shadows below them.

"Hello, little friend," he said in his big, expansive voice. He had always called her that. His use of the old words now conveyed a subtle warning. For some reason of his own he was going to ignore the ten years between them.

She opened the lower half of the door. She realized that although her mind had gone on with the business of making observations, of evoking in one second an entire catalogue of recollections, she was vulnerable to the shock of this encounter. Her hand on the wrought-iron latch was colder than the metal itself.

Sam's shoes made two heavy sounds on the floor. He was smiling as he folded her in a strong embrace and pressed his warm full mouth on hers. His mustache stabbed tiny points of pain into her upper lip. He smelled of whiskey. She pushed him away.

She could think of nothing to say.

He spoke. "You've got quite gray, Victoria!" He sounded surprised, and removed his cap with one tanned hand. His own hair was as dark as ever, and was clipped shorter than he had once worn it. He tossed his cap to the high-backed chair beside the door and let his eyes rove around the room. "This is a nice house," he said. "You've retained your contempt for the fussy things. I wondered if you would."

"I bought this house from a wealthy Mexican who had managed to make some money out of Mexican oil," she told him.

"How odd," Sam grinned. "That is the prerogative of the Norte-americanos. Didn't he know that?" "I left everything the way it was," went on Victoria, as though it were of great importance that she explain the utterly irrelevant matter of her purchase of the house. Mentally she shook her head. She was not functioning well; Sam was taking command of the situation.

He looked faintly around at the dull yellow walls, the bizarre linoleum. "Real adobe," he commented, and added, "I lived three years in Mexico, after I left France in thirty-nine."

"So I understand. Reports of your progress have drifted back to me from time to time."

He looked at her sharply as though seeking for any possible irony under the words. Seeing the strong and self-possessed face before her, she heard a friend's voice which had said, six years before, "He's gone very Don Juan. I heard about him from friends in Montmartre. I expected a suave, glib sort of person, and got quite a shock when I finally met him. He seems to have a peculiar technique. He finds a woman's heel of Achilles and digs at it ruthlessly. Most women seem to like it, at least the rich ones who have been spoiled by their men. Some people think he's a kind of glib, but that's not true. He's a pretty fascinating guy in his own fashion."

Sam was rubbing his hands together. Then he reached out and lightly thumped her shoulder. "This is an occasion, old girl. Journey's end. Lover's meeting. I want a drink."

"You get the ice," said Victoria. "You're darned tootin'! I will. The sight of you coping with an ice tray is a sight I've never forgotten. Men have conquered nations with less effort."

He filled the thermos jug on the little bar in the hall with ice cubes. He decided on old-fashioned to start with. When they were mixed, and as Sam and Victoria started down to the living room, Sam noticed the French door to the left of the dining table. He went to it and opened it. It led to a small walled balcony. Through trees the lights of Los Angeles could be seen, twinkling their fine points of white, red and green light. "I want to sit out here," he told her. "I like balconies."

Victoria said dryly, "They have their uses," and went to her bedroom for a short red jacket. When she returned, he had lighted the iron lantern and was stretched out on the long sunchair. Victoria took a deck chair facing it, and as she sank into it realized that she hated deck chairs for the feeling of insecurity they gave her.

"I read your last book," said Sam. "I can't say I agree with the critic's kind comments."

Victoria sat up straighter. She recalled again what the observant friend had once told her of Sam. He was starting in on a weak point—her writer's pride.

"You really have no notion of what strange creatures people are, Victoria."

"Ina Hart" got excellent reviews. The movies bought it."

"Ina would have been a more interesting character if you'd let her curious pattern stand by itself, without so much psychological analysis. She best betrayed her nature by her actions themselves. As we all do. But then psychological analysis was always your favorite pastime. How you used to love to boil a friend down to a shrewd case history!"

"A good many of our friends were case histories. They belonged in a textbook on mildly abnormal psychology."

He grinned. The lantern on the pale wall above him threw down its mild light, reduced his face to hidden eyes, shadows below cheekbones, a black mustache. There was something aggravating about his composure, his sureness.

"How about you?" she demanded. "Did you ever finish the Great American Novel?"

"Who ever does?" "That trip abroad after the divorce became chronic, didn't it?" He looked pleased at the nicety of her adjective. "Yes! That's it! Chronic!"

"His shoulders drew up in a shrug, and he tossed off the last of his drink. "People and places are more fun than words," he said, and swung easily to his feet. Looking down at her he added, "You need another drink."

"Don't put any sugar in this one. I have to watch my weight."

While he was gone Victoria sat looking at the far lights. There was something sad about them, about the balcony, about the whole situation. Remembrance of things past—mournful words. She recalled for no reason a lovely little song popular when she had first met Sam.

"Say it isn't so
Everyone is saying you don't love me
Say it isn't so."

On Sunset Strip, below the hill where her house stood, cars were passing in the night. She could not see them because of the balcony wall, but she could hear them. She thought of the long years and what they did to people.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ENABLE HIM TO DISCARD

UNDER ALL except the most unusual circumstances, it is advantageous to your side to give your partner an option between ruffing and discarding, especially if you can see a sure way to take your side's "book" of tricks, but have no visible means of scoring the additional trick which would set the contract. Enabling your mate to shorten his holding in some side suit may put him in position to get the deciding trick later on by means of a ruff.

West led the club K, which East properly overtook with the A, and the Q was then laid down. When West played the 3, East knew it was his last club, as with an intermediate he would have held on to his lowest.

Seeing that the dummy could ruff another club, with last crack at West if the latter trumped, East decided to switch to the spade A, then follow with the 9 in hopes of later getting a ruff of a spade to beat the contract.

South thereupon went ahead to make game. He took that spade with the K and led the diamond 9 to the K, which East overtook with the A. Then, when he returned the club J, South was able to ruff in the dummy, rake in the heart J, A, K and Q, then run diamonds to make his contract.

If East had led the third club to the third trick, West could have discarded one of his diamonds. Then, when East got the lead with the diamond A, he could have led another of the suit to give his partner the setting ruff. Of course, if West had had a heart higher than the J, the third club would have produced the setting ruff right there, since the spade and diamond tops were sure to score later.

After East failed to lead a club to the third trick, he could still have complicated South's job by returning a diamond after winning with the diamond A. The entry situation would have made it tough for South. But as East played, he was a very friendly enemy.

AMERICAN MEN LIKE PERFUME

Esme Of Paris Says Subtle
Salesmanship Will Sell
Most Males

BY BARBARA RUNDSCHE
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—The American male takes to perfume like he takes to pin-ups—but it's still in his subconscious.

A little subtle salesmanship is all that's necessary to sell him the idea of buying and using it, according to perfume creator Esme of Paris.

And that salesmanship is all in the difference between asking him: "Are you wearing perfume?" with an incredulous squeak, and telling him, "My, you smell good," in admiring tones.

The time is now for male perfumery, Esme said, because the man with the gold discharge pin in his buttonhole knows darn well that no one can call him a sissy.

"Men who have proved themselves men can afford to pay some attention to their grooming—and those men particularly may find perfume a successful antidote for the not so nice smells they've had to get used to."

The GI has plenty of precedent if he wants to walk in essence of flowers. The medieval medic, tough men themselves, sported earrings saturated with exotic smell and thought it mighty pretty.

Esme said, Edward VII had a special formula for "handkerchief essence" reserved and required for the gentlemen of his household brigade.

But the male doesn't have to go in for flowers—and no one has come up yet with "his" and "hers" bottles of channel No. 5. The best men's smells are woody ones, Esme said—reminiscent of the Scotch moors or the western prairies.

Give it to him, girls. He likes to smell good as much as you do—even if he does act sour about it.

6,000,000 HOME FOR CHRISTMAS FROM SERVICES

First Peacetime Holiday In Five Years Finds Many Back From Wars

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Six million Americans who were in Uncle Sam's uniform a year ago will be home for Christmas in "civvies" this year, a survey of Army, Navy and embarkation port figures indicated today.

To the "returnees" who will help make it the nation's happiest Yuletide since 1940, Christmas of 1944 will be just a memory of fighting Europe's bitter cold and in the searing heat of the Pacific jungles, of manning the Navy's warships, or of sweating out the war in Army camps here and abroad.

The Army has sent to their homes some 4,250,000 GI's since VE-day last May. Last week the Navy discharged the 1,000,000th sailor released since the Japanese surrendered in August.

Thousands of overseas veterans were pouring into East and West coast ports on transports in the week before the holiday. Adding domestic discharges and those from other branches of the armed forces, some 6,000,000 ex-servicemen and women will be on hand Dec. 25 to celebrate the nation's first peacetime Christmas in five years.

The New York port of embarkation, through which some 1,650,000 European theater veterans have passed since VE-day, prepared to handle about 60,000 more by Christmas at its big reception and separation centers, Camp Kilmer, N. J., Camp Shanks, N. Y., and Fort Dix, N. J.

At Boston, where more than 667,000 men have arrived by ship and plane since last May, about 15,000 more were expected before Christmas. And about 24,000 GI's were awaited before the holidays at the Hampton Roads, Va., port

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 5 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

of embarkation, where 573,437 have departed since VE-day.

The homeward rush created a log-jam at the three west coast ports—San Francisco, Los Angeles and Seattle—to which the Navy's "Magic Carpet" and other transports already have brought some 1,400,000 soldiers, sailors and Marines from Pacific areas since Sept. 1.

About 200,000 to 250,000 more were due before Christmas but already overloaded rail facilities may keep most of them on the west coast until after the holiday. Thousands of troops were forced to remain aboard transports for days after arrival because of lack of facilities for them ashore.

The office of defense transportation stepped into the situation, ordering western railroads to speed troop movements by operating all troop trains on schedules as fast as regular passenger trains.

But there was another side to the picture.

Some 900,000 Yanks still in Europe and more than a million in the Pacific on Christmas day will bring to mind the catch-line of a popular song:

"I'll Be Home for Christmas, If Only In My Dreams."

ENGINEERS CAN AVOID EXAMS BY REGISTERING

Engineers who have been graduated from an approved college of engineering may protect their eligibility for registration without an examination if application is made prior to January 1, 1946, according to an announcement by Ernest Gerber, president of the Southern Ohio chapter of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers.

The present state law requires that every engineer applying for registration after January 1, must take an examination before registration can be granted. Until January 1, graduates of colleges of engineering approved by the board of registration who file their applications before January 1, can be registered without examination.

Officers of the Southern Ohio chapter suggest that families of all engineering graduates now in military service write to the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Surveyors, 21 West Broad street, Columbus 15, Ohio, at once asking for an application for registration. This application must be at least partially filled in and returned to the

STORE HAS FIRE

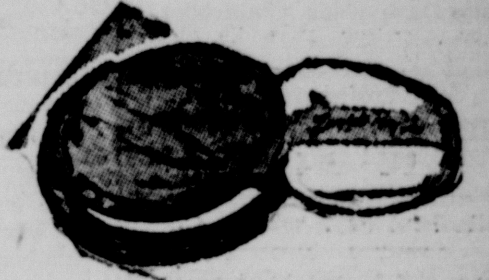

Firemen were called at 1:10 p. m. Tuesday to the Shaffer Upholstery shop on East Main street, after a fire had started in some of the upholstery, apparently caused by a misplaced cigaret. The fire was more smoke than blast. A little damage was caused, firemen stated. It was one of three fires Tuesday which kept Circleville firemen very busy.
